FIND THE HIDDEN MYSTERIES!

Get ready for six new, exciting Trixie Belden mysteries coming in September! Disguised within each of the paragraphs below are one or more key words from the title of one of the six new books. Each is part of more than one word. To help you in your search for the hidden mysteries, the full titles are listed here: The Mystery of the Ghostly Galleon, The Mystery at Saratoga, The Hudson River Mystery, The Mystery of the Queen's Necklace, The Sasquatch Mystery, The Mystery of the Headless Horseman.

1. When Trixie saw the word that Mart had just spelled out on the Scrabble board, she grinned at Brian and said, "I wouldn't put it past him to misspell a word to his own advantage. Sometimes he's a rat. 'Ogam,' indeed! Let's check the dictionary."

2. Puzzled, Trixie read aloud from Sleepyside's Cameo theater marquee: "'N___ S_____N_: _ECKL___ _ACE_.'" She discovered that the wind must have blown down some of the letters when she saw a poster inside that announced "NOW SHOWING: FRECKLED FACES."

3. A bystander described the fleeing purse snatcher to Sergeant Molinson. "He was a squat chap—short and heavy. He can't have gone too far."

4. "A local expert spoke to our history class today about ancient Viking culture," Dan said. "I couldn't believe his name: Headles Shorse! Managing to live with a name like that would be hard. I think I'd try and get it legally changed if I were him!"

5. "Who's that ghostly gal? Leona is her first name, isn't it?" Mart asked Jim. "I've never seen anyone that pale before—unless it's Trixie when it's her turn to do the dishes!"

6. When a partially submerged log collided with Mr. Belden and Brian's rented rowboat, Peter Belden quickly checked for hull damage. "We're lucky there's no dent. That hit with quite a thud, son. River debris is dangerous this time of year."

ANSWERS

1. He's a rat, 'Ogam,' (SARATOGA)
2. marquee: '...N___ S_____N_: _ECKL___ _ACE_'
3. was a squat chap (SASQUATCH)
4. Headles Shorse! Managing (HEADLESS HORSEMAN)
5. ghostly gal? Leona (GHOSTLY GALLEON)
6. thud, son, River (HUDSON RIVER)

SUMMER READING SPECTACULAR

Available now are twenty-four great books that will give you a summer of spectacular reading! Look for these special displays at your favorite stores.

The Call of the Wild by Jack London In the brutal, pitiless Northland, only the fierce and strong survive. The great dog Buck not only survived but became a legend as one of the most remarkable dogs the Northland had ever seen.

Golden Prize Here are twelve delightful stories about horses and the people who love them—country horses and city horses, country people and city people. A good combination for good reading!

Match Point by Owenita Sanderlin The long, hard hours of practice . . . the thrills and heartbreaks of the tournament trail . . . the struggle to control her own temper—it all comes to a climax for Dori Sinclair with the match point that could give her a national tennis championship.

Frankenstein by Mary Shelley Frankenstein created the world's most famous monster, and here he is in all of his frightfulness, vulnerability, and horror. Retold by Dale Carlson.

Algonquin by Dion Henderson Even as a puppy, Algonquin was not like any dog before him. He was strange and wild and not like a puppy at all. Pale, staring eyes foretold a fate both majestic and tragic. A classic story of a boy, two men, and a dog—and their intertwined destinies.

The War of the Worlds by H. G. Wells Terror reigns as Earth is overrun by nightmarish creatures in control of seemingly invulnerable, death-dealing machines. This terrifying epic of a Martian invasion is one of the great classics of science fiction.

Alice in Wonderland by Lewis Carroll The marvelous adventures of the little girl who fell down the rabbit hole have enchanted and bewildered readers of all ages. Lewis Carroll created a unique fantasy world where ordinary rules of logic don't seem to apply.

The Wonderful Wizard of Oz by L. Frank Baum This delightful fantasy about Dorothy's adventures with the Tin Man, the Scarecrow, and the Cowardly Lion in the mysterious, magical Land of Oz is among the most beloved classics of childhood.

Seven Great Detective Stories edited by William H. Larson Sherlock Holmes and Father Brown are among the ingenious sleuths who challenge the reader's deductive powers in this engrossing collection of seven mystifying tales, drawn from the classics of detective fiction.

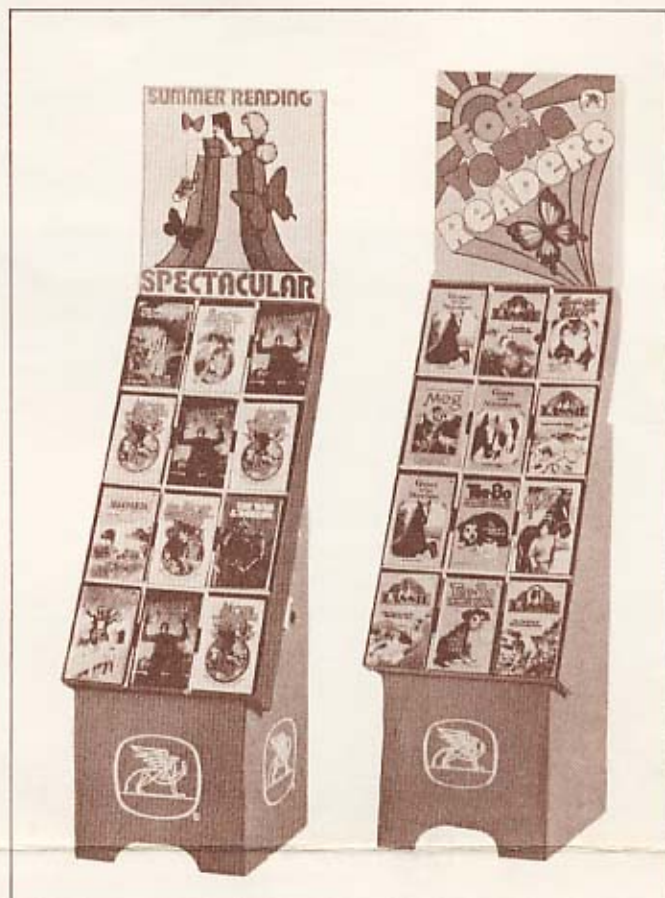

Shudders edited by Ross R. Olney Here are ten strange journeys into the unknown—heart-trembling reports from the uncanny world of witches, warlocks, and demons—written by masters of suspense and terror.

Black Beauty by Anna Sewell One of the most beloved of children's classics, this touching novel tells the life story of a gentle horse. By reading about Black Beauty's feelings toward his various owners, children learn sympathy for all living creatures.

THE MEG SERIES

The Disappearing Diamonds

The Secret of the Witch's Stairway by Holly Beth Walker Meg Duncan and her friend Kerry search for stolen diamonds and a hundred-year-old treasure in these two girl-detective adventures.

STORIES FOR GIRLS

A Batch of the Best

More of the Best

Still More of the Best

 edited by N. Gretchen Greiner

Share the tears and laughter, joys and heartaches, triumphs and tragedies of today's teen-age girl in these three collections of special stories.

THE LASSIE SERIES

The Mystery of Bristlecone Pine

Lost in the Snow

Trouble at Panter's Lake

The Secret of the Smelter's Cave

 by Steve Frazee

In these four exciting adventures, America's favorite collie faces a grizzly bear, an avalanche, a vicious false accusation, and a mountain lion.

THE GYPSY SERIES

Gypsy From Nowhere

Gypsy and Nimblefoot

 by Sharon Wagner

These two heartwarming stories feature Wendy and her beloved filly, Gypsy, as they both overcome fear and grow in understanding.

THE TEE-BO SERIES

Tee-Bo and the Persnickety Prowler

Tee-Bo in the Great Hort Hunt

 by Mary Burg Whitcomb

Tee-Bo, the incredible talking dog, leads the McRae children into two perilous yet hilarious adventures, one with a gang of jewel thieves and one with the strange and magical Horts.
